REAL POLITICIANS DO REAL WORK, MAYFIELD AT TRENTON FOOD BANK
Mayfield joins "Sisters Helping Others" (SHO) in delivering food at Donnelly Homes

(East Brunswick N.J.) September 26, 2022 – Darius Mayfield, Congressional candidate for the 12th district of New Jersey, took a break from the campaign trail over the weekend to join "Sisters Helping Others" (SHO) in delivering food and supplies to seniors and young families of the Donnelly Homes project in Trenton.

Mayfield has been a committed volunteer in the most under-served Tri-State neighborhoods for years and is carrying that commitment through his candidacy. However, he's cut a lone political presence in communities still struggling at the socio-economic margins. Saturday's work at the food bank was no exception despite all the talk and supposed outrage from the social justice warrior class.

"Real politicians do real work," said Mayfield. "People are fed up with eloquent words and little action. The hypocrisy is glaring. These communities deserve better and there is no shortage of them in New Jersey - help people help themselves. I hear a lot of elected officials talk but I have never come across an actual official serving these communities in any real way. I will!!!"

Mayfield vows to continue to do the nitty-gritty work once he ousts incumbent Bonnie Watson Coleman on November 8th.

"Watson Coleman is missing-in-action in her own district yet finds the time to protest with her besties AOC and Maxine Waters," said Darius. "For anyone on the fence about voting this November, what do you have to lose? We need your vote and we also need poll workers. Please get involved anyway you can."

SHO is a charitable organization keeping people fed in Trenton, N.J.
